ROXIMA VARA is the variable version of Proxima Nova. It is a typeface idea I've been working on in various forms since 1981. It was nothing more than rough sketches back then, but the concept for the lowercase was quite similar to how it eventually turned out. The caps came later. ♦ In 1991, I was art director of Business Ethics magazine, where I was using Gill Sans. I liked it, but wished for something a bit plainer and more modern that still had a geometric feel. Such a face did not seem to exist. Starting from my 1981 idea, I began working on a new typeface to fill this void. I modeled it somewhat on American "gothic" faces. ▶ I wanted the general proportions and stroke contrast of Helvetica or Akzidenz Grotesk, but with construction and details borrowed variously from Futura, Kabel, the ATF gothics (Copperplate Gothic, News Gothic, Franklin Gothic, etc.) and the U.S. Federal Highway signage typeface. The result was a hybrid; a face combining modern, evenwidth proportions with a somewhat geometric appearance. * I released it through FontHaus in 1994 as Proxima Sans, a family of six fonts—Regular, Medium, and Black with matching italics. • I had plans to do more weights, small caps, a condensed version, and other ideas. But between lackluster sales, becoming a new parent, and taking on a new full-time job, I found I didn't have the time or energy to continue working on it for a while. ▶ By the early

2000s, I started to get requests to Proxima Sans expand the Proxima Sans family and Rolling Stone magazine chose Proxima Nova Encouraged by all this, I went back it as part of its redesign in 2002. to work on a new Proxima Sans family even more ambitious than what I had originally planned. • In 2005, I re-released it as Proxima Nova, a family of 42 fonts seven weights and three widths with matching italics. Built from the start with the OpenType format in mind, it featured advanced typographic features like small caps, different figure styles, fractions, and alternate characters, enough to take on the most demanding typographic applications. • Proxima Nova contained other improvements over the original. I reviewed and refined every character. I rebuilt the italics from scratch. I redid the hinting for better on-screen display. The character set grew from 245 to 699 characters (1432 with the latest version). I kept the special characters from the original, like the arrows and other dingbats. I scrapped and rebuilt the spacing and kerning. As in Proxima Sans, the italics have been optically adjusted to eliminate the distortion caused by simply slanting the letters—true italics, not simple obliques. ▶ Since I first released Proxima Nova, I've continued to make improvements and enhancements, such as additional language support, including Vietnamese, Cyrillic and Greek, and have added a new weight-Medium-bringing the total number of fonts in the family to 48. ★ Proxima Vara continues this evolution, adding OpenType Font Variations (OTVar). This new family puts all the styles and features of Proxima Nova in a single font file. The original styles exist as "named" styles (plus a new weight-Extralight) which you can select from font menus. But in apps and web browsers that support variable fonts, you can select any arbitrary weight, width, or slant using sliders or specifying values, giving Proxima Vara 5,000,000 possible styles. —Mark Simonson

NOTE: Access to extended language features requires application and/or operating system Unicode or OpenType support.

OPENTYPE FEATURES SUPPORTED

Small Caps from Lowercase, All Small Caps, Standard Ligatures, Stylistic Alternates, Stylistic Sets (00-09), Case-Sensitive Forms, Class-Based Kerning, Proportional Lining Figures, Tabular Lining Figures, Proportional Oldstyle Figures, Tabular Oldstyle Figures, Slashed Zero, Fractions, Ordinals, Superscript, Scientific Inferior, Mark to Base, and Mark to Mark, Font Variations.

NOTE: Access to OpenType features requires application and/or operating system OpenType support.

ALTERNATE CHARACTER ACCESS

There are ten Stylistic Sets, providing access to alternate characters in Proxima Vara. In applications that support it, the name of the Stylistic Set is displayed (e.g., "Schoolbook Style"):

Set	Name	Roman	Italic
1	Schoolbook Style	aly⇒αly	Iy→ly
2	Geometric Sans Style	Ga⇒Gα	G → G
3	Round G	G → G	G → G
4	One-story a	a → a	a → a*
5	Two-story a	a → a*	a → a
6	Curved I	→	/ → [
7	Curved y	y → y	y → y
8	Primes from Straight Quotes	' " → ′ "	'"→'"
9	Seriffed One	1 + 1	1 → 1

* NO CHANGE

In programs that support Stylistic Sets, more than one Set may be applied at a time. For example, Stylistic Set 1 could be recreated by applying Sets 4, 6, and 7 all at once.

Note that Stylistic Sets 4 and 5 affect roman and italic differently. If you prefer a two-story lowercase "a" in italic as well as roman, apply Set 5. The roman "a" will keep its normal two-story design because Set 5 has no effect on the roman. Similarly, if you prefer to have a one-story "a" in both roman and italic, apply Set 4 instead, which changes the roman but not the italic.

FONT VARIATIONS

In apps and web browsers that support OpenType Font Variations (OTVar), you can specify arbitrary weight, width, or slant:

WEIGHT: 100-900 (100 = Thin, 900 = Black)

EEEEEEEEEEEEEE

WIDTH: 50—100 (50 = Extra Condensed, 100 = normal width)

EEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE

SLANT: 0—125 (0 = 0° upright, 125 = 12.5° italic)

EEEEEEEEEEEEEEE

Any combination of these three characteristics may be specified, giving a total of 5,000,000 possible styles.

Note: The lowercase "a" changes to a one-story form ("a") when the slant value exceeds 50 (5°). You can override this using the "Two-story a" stylistic set (Set 5). Similarly, if you have applied the "One-story a" stylistic set (Set 4), the lowercase "a" will remain one-story, regardless of slant value.

Variations are usually controlled with sliders in desktop apps. For web use, values can be specified using CSS (Cascading Style Sheets).

In addition to these variable characteristics, there are 54 named styles which may be selected from font menus. In apps that don't yet have full support for arbitrary styles, you can still select any of these styles.

VARIABLE FONT SUPPORT

While all current web browsers support variable fonts, as of this writing (October 2020), support is uneven and sometimes missing in desktop apps. Adobe Creative Cloud apps (Illustrator, InDesign, and Photoshop) mostly support it, but there are still some bugs (e.g., variation sliders in InDesign don't always work correctly). Apple iWork apps (Pages, Keynote, and Numbers) have some support (named styles), again, with some bugs. Microsoft Office apps (Word, Excel, and Powerpoint) have no support for variable fonts yet, not even named styles, although it has been promised for an upcoming version.

For the latest information on which apps and web browsers support variable fonts, go to $\frac{1}{v}$ -fonts.com/support/ .

A BALL OF FIRE said to have knocked out a 30-year-old Scout Master, has sent the Air Force Flying Saucer Investigation Squad to Florida. There it has been told a strange story by ex-marine Scout Master D.S. Desverges, who says he was going home with three scouts when he saw flashes of light in a wood. Going to investigate, he saw "an object large enough for six or eight men to stand in. It was about ten feet high in the center and about thirty feet in diameter and shaped like a half rubber ball, tapering down to a three foot thickness on the side. I believe I was under and near it for about three minutes. It was only ten feet from the ground. It made a hissing sound like a tire going down." Desverges said that from the object a flare was shot at him which seemed to float

A BALL OF FIRE said to have knocked out a 30-year-old Scout Master, has sent the Air Force Flying Saucer Investigation Squad to Florida. There it has been told a strange story by ex-marine Scout Master D.S. Desverges, who says he was going home with three scouts when he saw flashes of light in a wood. Going to investigate, he saw "an object large enough for six or eight men to stand in. It was about ten feet high in the center and about thirty feet in diameter and shaped like a half rubber ball, tapering down to a three foot thickness on the side. I believe I was under and near it for about three minutes. It was only ten feet from the ground. It made a hissing sound like a tire going down." Desverges said that from the object a flare was shot at him which seemed to float

A BALL OF FIRE said to have knocked out a 30-year-old Scout Master, has sent the Air Force Flying Saucer Investigation Squad to Florida. There it has been told a strange story by exmarine Scout Master D.S. Desverges, who says he was going home with three scouts when he saw flashes of light in a wood. Going to investigate, he saw "an object large enough for six or eight men to stand in. It was about ten feet high in the center and about thirty feet in diameter and shaped like a half rubber ball, tapering down to a three foot thickness on the side. I believe I was under and near it for about three minutes. It was only ten feet from the ground. It made a hissing sound like a tire going down." Desverges said that from the ob-

A Deputy Sheriff reports that the hairs on Desverges arms had been singed and tiny holes burned in his cap. There was some scorched ground near the spot. When Desverges came from the woods he is said to have looked like a wild man. The scout master's story is being closely studied by experts. It may be that boy scout Rowan has given a clue. He says

Des verges said that from the object a flare was shot at him which seemed to float slowly towards his face. "When I awoke" he added, "I had no sense of feelling." A Deputy Sheriff reports that the hairs on Desverges arms had been singed and tiny holes burned in his cap. There was some scorched ground near the spot. When Desverges came from the woods he is said to have looked like a wild man. The scout master's
